Geneva, 18 April 2023 — Baghera/wines will hold the fourth edition of its quarterly auction on April 28 in Geneva at 1 pm CEST. Kipling #4 Pleasures & Plenitude will bring together a stunning selection of rare wines, including a series of Château Petrus bottles. Unusually, these Pomerols are presented in original six-bottle cases. The online auction will be live-streamed from Club 1865 by Baghera/wines, at the Beau-Rivage Genève and will feature 148 lots meticulously selected by the Maison’s teams for their rarity, impeccable provenance and quality of conservation and storage.

“pleasures & plenitude”: an exceptional auction with a variety of rare finds

The inventory begins with an impressive suite of lots (47-62), from Château Petrus, covering 1996 to 2013 vintages: offered, in a rare occurrence, by six or 12 in their original wooden and/or cardboard cases. The bottles are all of a level deemed excellent by experts and their pleasing appearance testifies to their impeccable conservation over the years.

The jewel in the crown of the selection is a set of six bottles of Château Petrus from 2000, offered in their original case, freshly unsealed by Baghera/wines’ experts, and estimated at between CHF 24,000 and 48,000.

Among the other lots to watch out and bringing a touch of glamor are a wonderful offering of Champagne Selsosse, Louis Roederer, Dom Pérignon and Krug with vintages starting from 1996, along with a number of magnums.

A rare set of six Domaine René Engel, Grands-Echézeaux 1995 magnums will be proposed to devotees of great Pinot Noirs at an estimated price of between CHF 32,000 and 64,000.

Founders of Baghera/wines and auctioneers for the event Michael Ganne and Julie Carpentier, say: *“For this spring auction in Geneva we are delighted to offer a selection of bottles from a handful of European cellars and collections.
